

The Humanitas Forum
on
Christianity and Culture

The purpose of The Humanitas Forum on Christianity and Culture is to provide a venue for wrestling with many of the profound issues at the intersection of faith and culture as well as with deeper cultural currents that often go unnoticed—currents such as individualism, secularization, scientific reductionism, and the changing conception of human dignity.

The mission of The Humanitas Forum is deliberately broader than that of The Humanitas Project, which focuses on bioethics education as an increasingly critical area within Christian discipleship. In addition to bioethics, future Forums will address a broad range of topics, such as education, entertainment, technology, vocation and calling, Christian discipleship in a secular age, science and religion, and human suffering.

In sum, the mission of The Humanitas Forum on Christianity and Culture is to address both the need for an accurate understanding of contemporary culture and the requirements for engaging the culture on the basis of historic Christian convictions. What does it mean to follow Jesus in a post-Christian culture?

The Humanitas Forum
on
Christianity and Culture

is an initiative of

The Humanitas Project:
A Center for Bioethics Education
P. O. Box 2282
Cookeville, Tennessee 38502

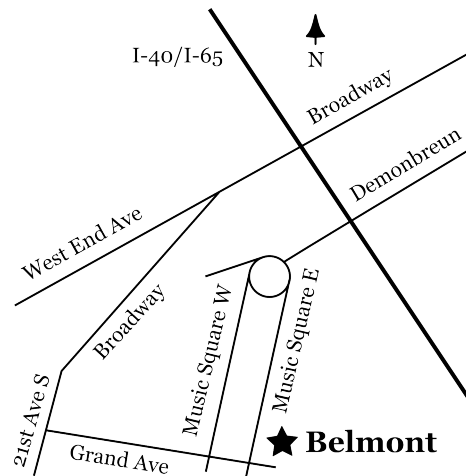

931-239-8735

www.humanitas.org

Directions

Belmont Church
68 Music Square East
Nashville, Tennessee

Exit to Broadway west

The Humanitas
Forum
on
Christianity and Culture

2008 Spring Lectures

April 11–12

The Humanitas Forum
on
Christianity and Culture

2008 Spring Lectures

Overview

Before Jesus commanded the Church to go and make disciples, he asserted his authority over everything in Heaven and on Earth. Yet many modern Christians (and their secularist neighbors) assume that Christian discipleship is a matter of private spiritual growth with few earthly consequences concerning the ways we order our time, make and spend our money, and think about our place in Creation.

In these four presentations, Ken Myers and Jeremy Beer will look at how modern culture tempts us to shrink our faith, and how we might resist that temptation.

Speakers

Ken Myers is host and producer of the MARS HILL AUDIO Journal, a bimonthly audio magazine that examines issues in contemporary culture from a framework of Christian conviction.

Dr. Jeremy Beer is the Publications Director and Editor in Chief at ISI Books. He has written about educational and cultural matters for First Things, Crisis, Utne Reader, and Touchstone.

More than a Personal Savior
Following the Great Commissioner
Monday through Saturday

April 11–12

Friday – 7:00 p.m. – Ken Myers

We're Not Just Souls: How the Gospel Addresses Our Cultural Lives

Friday – 8:00 p.m. – Jeremy Beer

What's So Weird about Modernity? Therapy and the Corruption of Culture

Saturday – 8:30 a.m. – Ken Myers

Conformity or Transformation? Why the Church Can't Be Too Relevant

Coffee Break – 9:30 to 10:00

Saturday – 10:00 a.m. – Jeremy Beer

All Culture Is Local: The Christian Life and the Discipline of Place

Saturday – 11:00 a.m. to noon

Discussion with Ken Myers & Jeremy Beer

Q&A Following Each Lecture

Doors & Book Table: Open at 6:00 p.m. on Friday and at 8:00 a.m. on Saturday

Additional Info: www.humanitas.org/forum

Belmont Church
 68 Music Square East
 Nashville, Tennessee

| | | | | | |
|---------------|------------------|-----------|-----------|--------------|-----------|
| | Starting April 1 | | | | |
| | Before April 1 | | | | |
| Individual(s) | $15.00 x | Couple(s) | $25.00 x | Student(s) | $10.00 x |
| | | | | Family* | $45.00 x |
| | | | | TOTAL | $ |

*Children 13 and under free; over 13 count as student.
 Family rate includes couple and all children.

| | |
|---------|-----------|
| Name(s) | |
| Address | |
| City | State Zip |
| Phone | Email |

Registration is also available online, using all major credit cards: www.humanitas.org/forum

Please mail form with check made out to "The Humanitas Project" to:
 The Humanitas Project, P.O. Box 2282, Cookeville, TN 38502